Weymouth Feby 12th 1857

Dear Mr. Garrison.

I am pained to learn from the affecting letter of Mr. Shaw, how much our beloved friend & brother, George Thompson is suffering from this terrible illness which the climate of India has brought upon him. Happily, suffering for want of the means of existence cannot continue to be a part of that sacrifice he early made for right, when once he, whose cause, to the ruin of his own prospects he then took up, whose heart he engaged & whose labours he lightened for life, become aware of his present situation.

I think Mr Shaw's idea that a thousand dollars ought immediately to be forwarded from the scene of his labours here, an excellent one. I think what the British friends whom our example will incite shall afterwards do, it will carry him along till the good promise of restoration be fulfilled which his state of health would not afford if he were relieved from present anxiety & want.

Want! - & George Thompson to want, while the shekels of '35 live! Not if they know it, I am confident. I hope you will send Mr Shaw's letter to such as we know would would feel impelled to send $100 to you in reply. I think I know some such as

Edward H. Harris,
Francis Jackson &
E. J. Loring
Philadelphia Friends
Lynn Friends

Gerritt Smith
Wendell Phillips &
H. W. Chapman
New-York friends
Marcus Spring

And the names of the following generous hearted friends who are like minded to deeply indebted to Thompson, might surely be set down for $20 to $5 each.

Count me for $50 — for I shall deem it a duty to the cause to borrow it, if I can do no other.

With thanks for your kindness in sending me the letter of Mr Thayer which I herewith enclose

P. S. I would not counsel any public mention of this necessity, which it ought to be our exclusive privilege & honour to obviate.

Perhaps a circular, embodying a few sentences of Mr. Thayers letter, (by just stepping in to a Lithographic office & writing it with their prepared paper & ink it could be done without trouble) would be the best method, as except in a few instances, the letter itself would be too slow a process.
